

General terms and conditions of purchase and (sub)contracting of CoxGeelen B.V. in Eijsden, Netherlands, of 1 January 2019

General

Article 1: Scope of application

- The Client is the natural person, legal entity or partnership that applies these terms and conditions of purchase. The other party is referred to as the 'Contractor'. In these terms and conditions 'Principals' refers to the Client's client. In addition, 'the work' is also understood to refer to the provision of services.
- Articles 1 up to and including 23 of these terms and conditions apply to all offers made to the Client, agreements concluded with the Client and to all agreements arising from this, insofar as the Client is the buyer or the client. If those offers or agreements relate to the (sub) contracting of work or the provision of services, then Articles 24 up to and including 32 of these terms and conditions also apply.
- Deviations from these general terms and conditions of purchase and (sub)contracting only apply if these have been confirmed in writing by the Client to the Contractor.
- In the event of conflicts between the content of the agreement entered into by the Client and the Contractor and these general terms and conditions, the provisions set out in the agreement will prevail.

Article 2: Costs related to offers

- Any costs associated with making offers or quotations, including the costs of advice, drawings and the like made by or on behalf of the Contractor, will not be reimbursed by the Client.

Article 3: Delivery time and penalty

- Specified delivery times or execution periods are deadlines. The Contractor is in default by operation of law on exceeding the delivery time or execution period. As soon as the Contractor knows or ought to know that the agreement will not be executed, or will not be executed on time or properly, it will inform the Client immediately.
- The Contractor is liable for all damage suffered by the Client as a result of exceeding the delivery time and/or execution period as referred to in paragraph 1 of this article.
- For every day of delay in the delivery time or execution period, the Contractor will pay the Client an immediately due and payable fine of € 1,000 per day. This penalty can be claimed in addition to compensation by virtue of the law.

Article 4: Prices

- The prices mentioned in the offer are based on delivery as referred to in Article 5.1 of these terms and conditions.
- All prices are expressed in euros, fixed, exclusive of VAT and inclusive of proper packaging.
- An increase in cost-determining factors that occurred after the conclusion of the agreement remains at the expense of the Contractor, regardless of the period that elapsed between the conclusion of the agreement and the execution thereof.

Article 5: Delivery and risk transfer

- Delivery takes place at the moment that the Contractor delivers the good to the Client's business location unloaded. Until that time the Contractor bears the risk of the good in terms of, inter alia, storage, loading, transport and unloading. The Contractor is obliged to insure itself against these risks at its own expense.
- The Client and the Contractor may agree that the Client will be responsible for the transport. In that case too, the Contractor bears the risk of, inter alia, storage, loading, transport and unloading. The Contractor can insure itself against these risks.
- If the goods are collected by or on behalf of the Client, the Contractor must provide assistance with the loading free of charge.

Article 6: Inspection and approval

- The Client has the right at all times to inspect or approve the ordered or delivered goods and/or work (in progress). In that case, the Contractor will provide such facilities as can reasonably be required for this.
- The Client is never obliged to inspect or approve the ordered or delivered goods and/or work (in progress) and can assume that the ordered or delivered goods and/or work (in progress) are sound.
- The costs of the inspection referred to in paragraph 1 of this article will be borne by the Contractor if these goods/work are rejected by the Client. Inspection or approval does not release the Contractor from any guarantee or liability, arising from these terms and conditions, the agreement or the law.

Article 7: Rejection

- If the goods/work delivered by the Contractor do not comply with the agreement, the Client has the right to reject these. Receipt of the goods or payment of the goods or work does not imply acceptance thereof.
- If the Client rejects the delivered goods and/or work, the Contractor is obliged to act as follows within a period to be determined by the Client:
 - arrange for free repair or, at the discretion of the Client;
 - arrange for free replacement of the goods and/or have the work carried out in accordance with the agreement.
- If the Contractor fails to comply with its obligation referred to in paragraph 2 of this article within the set period or does not do so to the satisfaction of the Client, the Client will be entitled to carry out the work referred to in paragraph 2 of this article itself or have it done by a third party at the Contractor's expense.

Article 8: Intellectual property rights

- 'Intellectual property rights' include copyright, database rights, design rights, trademark rights, patents, topographies, or the right to obtain these intellectual property rights by application, filing, registration or otherwise.
- 'Intellectual property rights to the work' include all intellectual property rights vested in the work, performance to be delivered, the goods and tools such as drawings, designs, models, moulds and equipment realised with regard to or for the execution of the agreement between the Contractor and the Client.
- All intellectual property rights to the work belong to the Client. The Client is considered to be the maker, designer or inventor of the works created in the context of the agreement. The Client therefore has the exclusive right to apply for a patent, trademark or model. If the performance (party) consists of currently existing intellectual property rights, the Contractor hereby transfers these rights, insofar as possible, to the Client and at the first request of the Client will undertake the additional actions required for the transfer without delay.
- For the transfer of the intellectual property rights to the work, the Client will not owe any compensation to the Contractor.
- The Contractor waives the personality rights mentioned in Article 25.1(a) of the Copyright Act. Insofar as it concerns changes to the work, the goods or the name thereof, the Contractor also waives the personality rights referred to in Article 25.1(b) and c) of the Copyright Act. The Contractor will not invoke the authority granted in Article 25.4 of the Copyright Act.
- The Contractor guarantees that the goods to be delivered to the Client, the work to be performed and the intellectual property rights to the work do not infringe the rights of third parties, including intellectual property rights, and indemnifies the Client against all claims on that account. The Contractor will compensate the Client for all damage resulting from any infringement, including the (full) costs of defence.

Article 9: Source code and user licence for computer software

- If the performance to be delivered by the Contractor (also) consists of the delivery of computer software developed specifically for the Client, the Contractor will transfer the source code to the Client.
- If the performance to be delivered by the Contractor consists of the delivery of computer software not specifically developed for the Client, the Client - by way of derogation from Article 8.3 of these terms and conditions - will be given a non-exclusive, worldwide and perpetual user licence to that part of the computer software for the normal use and proper functioning of the good. If a part of the computer software has been developed specifically for the Client, Articles 8 and 9, first paragraph of these terms and conditions apply in full to that part. The Client is not permitted to transfer the licence or to issue a sublicense.

Upon the sale of the good by the Client to a third party, the licence automatically transfers to the acquirer of the good.

- For the acquisition of the source code as referred to in the first paragraph of this article or user licence as referred to in the second paragraph of this article, the Client shall not owe any compensation to the Contractor.

Article 10: Confidentiality and non-solicitation clause

Article 12: Resources

- All resources, such as drawings, models, moulds and equipment, which are made available to the Contractor by the Client for the execution of an agreement or which the Contractor has made or commissioned specifically within the framework of the agreement with the Client, remain or become the property of the Client under all circumstances, irrespective of whether or not these have been paid for.
- All resources and all copies made of these must be made available or returned to the Client at the first request.
- As long as the Contractor has the resources in its possession, the Contractor must provide these with an indelible mark indicating that they are the property of the Client. The Contractor will remind all third parties who wish to lay claim to these resources of the Client's ownership.
- Without prejudice to the provisions set out in Article 10 of these terms and conditions, the Contractor shall only use the resources referred to in this article for the performance of deliveries and work for the Client and shall not show these to third parties, unless the Client has given explicit written permission for this. The Contractor bears the risk of loss, misplacing, destruction or damage and is obliged to insure this risk at its own expense.

- In the event that the completed or delivered goods or the work are not commissioned within 12 months after delivery or completion, the guarantee applies for a period of 24 months after delivery or completion.
- If the agreed performance has not been properly executed, the Contractor will execute the performance properly as yet without delay, with the Client making the choice between repair or replacement, without prejudice to all other rights that the Client is entitled to by virtue of the law.
- The Contractor will bear all costs associated with the repair of the defect or the replacement of the goods and/or work. This also includes the costs for the commissioning of the goods and/or work after aforementioned repair or replacement. If the goods and/or work are part of a larger object, the costs for commissioning that larger object will also be borne by the Contractor.
- If the Contractor fails to comply with its guarantee obligation, the Client will be entitled to perform the guarantee work itself or have it performed by third parties at the expense of the Contractor.
- A warranty period does not affect the right of the Client to invoke non-conformity. The Client may appeal to non-conformity and the relevant provisions of the law in Article 7:17 of the Dutch Civil Code, both during and after the warranty period as set out in this article, if the performance is defective.
